WASHINGTON, D.C. – (Tuesday, March 10, 2009) - At a time when credit unions are diversifying their investment holdings to a greater extent, credit unions are now looking to Trust for Credit Unions for traditional investing options. The Trust for Credit Unions Fund Balance has risen 53% in the first two months of the year - up to $2.55 billion in total balances, as of February 27, 2009.

“The principles that Trust for Credit Unions was built on are still viable today. Now, just as in our beginning 21 years ago, credit unions are looking at disciplined investment strategies,” said TCU Board Chairman Rudy Hanley. “We follow a simple approach for short-term investing: stability, liquidity, and yield.”

The Trust for Credit Unions is a group of mutual funds exclusively for credit unions. Founded in 1988 by 20 credit unions, the primary purpose of the TCU is to provide credit union value.

The TCU Portfolios, which are advised by Goldman Sachs Asset Management, offer three funds: Money Market Portfolio, Short Duration Fund, and Ultra Short Duration Fund.
